Competitive racing, first-time winners at Off Road Speedway
By RANDY POSPISHIL
Norfolk Daily News

Track conditions were at a premium Saturday night at Off Road Speedway, creating opportunities for competitive racing in all classes. With two lines available for drivers to choose on either the high or low sides of the track, the racing was not only fast, but also closely contested because of the ability to pass on the inside or outside, which brought a couple of multi-car pileups into play.

Saturday night's racing card featured a visit by a combination of the Malvern Bank 360 Sprint Cars as well as the Gunderson Racing Midwest Sprint Tour Series 360 Sprint Cars, with 18 drivers vying in the "A" feature for a $2,000 purse. Starting position for the first six rows was established by a six-car "dash" race, which awarded dash winner Stewart Snyder the pole position in the feature race. Snyder, whose early-season results have been a self-described struggle, made the most of the starting position. The Lincoln driver held the lead for the first seven laps of the 25-lap race before being passed by Chase Brown on the inside of turn four, but Snyder held onto second before taking advantage of the pair catching up to lapped traffic 10 laps later. Snyder darted to the inside of Brown and secured the lead for three more laps until the race's first caution. That caution, caused when Evan Semerad's No. 59 car went around between turns one and two, set up a single-file green-white-checked finish.

Despite his challengers — all competitors who earned starting positions in the first three rows determined by their finish in the dash — being aligned on his rear bumper, Snyder closed out his first victory of the season while John Klabunde of Fort Calhoun took second place with Brown of Yutan in third.

"We have been absolutely horrible, no matter what car we've gone in — whether it was the 360 or the 305 — but we changed up a shock package last week at Eagle (Raceway), and the car seemed to work really well the first night on it here tonight," Snyder said. "...These races aren't easy, but they're a little easier when you're starting on the front row. You can kind of set your own pace. ...

"As horrible as we've been at the drop of the green every time out, I think now we may have gotten some momentum back."

In the IMCA Stock Cars "A" feature, as the high side of the track became an effective line used by several drivers, another battle erupted between brothers Cameron and Kyle Wilkinson of Neligh. The pair, who started side-by-side in row four of the seven-row field, quickly joined the competition among the top five before Cameron Wilkinson passed early race leader Chad Bruns with seven laps left. One lap later, Kyle Wilkinson also made his way past Bruns and, with three laps remaining, Platte Center's Austin Brauner made it a three-car challenge for the lead. Ultimately, Cameron Wilkinson finished first, with Kyle Wilkinson fighting off Brauner's attempt to pass on the inside of turn four to earn second place with Brauner forced to settle for third.

Twenty cars competed for the win in the IMCA Hobby Stocks feature, where Wyatt Lehman of Norfolk powered into the front spot following the race's first caution and restart — caused by contact between cars exiting turn four that resulted in a collection of five damaged cars entangled and damaged in the front straight-away. As the remaining 15 cars resumed the feature, Lehman broke into the lead ahead of Shannon Pospisil and established a lead of several car lengths with a group of five cars competing for second and third behind him. Pospisil held onto second for five more laps until Trevor Frisch took over just before a second caution occurred with five laps left. Lehman and Frisch held onto first and second place, respectively, while Neligh's Jason Wilkinson made a late move past both Pospisil and Ryan Fajman of Albion to grab third.

Another battle took place in the IMCA SportMods “A” feature, where Columbus driver Riley Osantowski achieved his first Off Road Speedway win. Osantowski was able to get out front by passing race leader Kyle Wilkinson just before the race’s only caution, then managed to stay ahead of a hard-charging Cameron Meyer — who was able to squeeze past Kyle Wilkinson by using the bottom of the track following the restart — during the last three laps.

Meyer of Pierce finished second in the feature, while Kyle Wilkinson took third place. Another first-time winner at Off Road Speedway, Pierce driver Kiegan Werner, outdistanced the nine-car field in the Pro Stock 4 class.

Bentley Freeman and Sam Cordner, both of Norfolk, finished in second and third place, respectively.

Similarly, Hunter Betzen of David City earned his first trip to Victory Lane in the Crown Vic division by halting Christopher Nickolite’s string of wins at three.

Bellwood’s Nickolite did take home a second-place finish, however, with Norfolk Kelly Mielke finishing third.
