Attrition determines feature winners at Off Road Speedway

By RANDY POSPISHIL

Norfolk Daily News

Saturday night's feature winners at Off Road Speedway had two circumstances to contend with.

The first challenge was to avoid the attrition that steadily reduced the number of cars still in contention in each race, either because of damage or mechanical problems, while the second was to reach the finish line ahead of those remaining.

In the IMCA Late Models "A" feature, for example, Stanton's Nelson Vollbrecht bolted to the front immediately from a second-row starting position and held a solid lead for six laps despite two cautions that kept the field close behind him. The collision that initiated the first caution eliminated a pair of cars, and another promptly reduced the field from 12 cars to nine. Soon after the second caution, however, mechanical issues ended Vollbrecht's night as he exited turn two. Plainview's Beau Johnson inherited the lead with 18 of the 25 laps remaining and successfully held off multiple efforts by Cory Dumpert the rest of the race — including an unsuccessful slide-job effort by Dumpert with 11 laps left — to secure the feature win. Dumpert finished second, with fellow Newman Grove racer Alex Banks taking third place.

In the IMCA Hobby Stocks feature, another race affected by a reduced field, Norfolk's Wyatt Lehman won his second consecutive "A" feature of the season at Off Road Speedway. Five cars pulled away early in the race to battle for the front spot — including early leader Dalton Young of Albion and Norfolk's Lance Mielke — while Lehman began his journey from the seventh of 10 rows of cars in the initial field. Three cars were eliminated from competition at the first caution six laps into the feature, with the battle between Young and Mielke for the lead continuing for the next five, when the race's third caution occurred. On the restart, with three laps left, 14 of the starting field of 20 cars remained, and Young held the lead. But that changed when Young's car lost traction in turn four and Lehman, who had been in third, made his move to the front with Joe Beller of Norfolk pulling alongside, then passing Young on the final lap. Beller finished second, while Young — an Albion driver — was third.

The field in the IMCA Stock Cars "A" feature remained largely intact, with Norfolk's Tejay Mielke parlaying a starting position on the outside of row one into his first Off Road victory of 2025. Cameron Wilkinson of Neligh made his way from six rows back, ultimately passing Chad Bruns and Kyle Wilkinson during the final five laps, to mount a late challenge for the win.

That effort ended with an unsuccessful slide-job in turn two with two laps remaining, as Mielke finalized his win with Cameron Wilkinson taking second place with Bruns, of Wayne, finishing third.

Kyle Wilkinson won the IMCA SportMods "A" feature, moving up from the third row and breaking free of a multiple-car cluster to pursue pole-sitter and race leader Jonathan Jensen.

Kyle Wilkinson got his chance to reduce Jensen's early lead following the race's first caution, then gained a slight advantage coming out of turn four on the outside with four laps left.

A slide job in turn four one lap later gave Kyle Wilkinson the lead when the race's last caution occurred, and the Neligh driver held off Rusty Montagne during the final lap for the victory. Montagne, of North Sioux City, Iowa, was second while Norfolk's Jensen edged Cameron Meyer of Pierce at the finish line for third place.

The field in the Pro Stock 4 feature race dwindled from 12 cars to seven — with most of those departing before two of the 10 laps had been completed. Eventually, Trent Reed of Mondamin, Iowa, took the lead following the race's fourth and final caution, leading the final six laps as the field spread out behind him for the win.

Pierce driver Kiegan Werner took second place, while Norfolk's Kyle Reed was third. Hunter Betzen of David City won the nine-car Crown Vic "A" feature, holding onto the lead he secured with four laps remaining despite a late caution that set up a green-white-checkered finish. Norfolk's Aden Mielke finished second, and Neligh's Damon Arehart took third place.

Racing returns to Off Road Speedway with a regular slate of racing on Saturday, June 7.
