High-line momentum produces wins at Off Road Speedway

By RANDY POSPISHIL

sports@norfolkdailynews.com

Drivers had a choice of the high line of the track or the low line during Saturday night's feature races at Off Road Speedway.

Those that selected the high line were often able to produce the momentum necessary, especially while exiting turn two and heading into the backstretch — to pass cars and carry the advantage through critical turns three and four, contending for spots among the top four finishers in victory lane as a result.

Norfolk's Jordan Uehling made the most of his starting position on the outside of the first row to win the IMCA Hobby Stocks "A" feature. Staying on the outside allowed Uehling to maintain the lead through the first five laps despite one caution and, when the second and third cautions occurred during the next five laps, his continued use of the outside line helped hold off repeated challenges from Joe Beller on the inside. Following the third caution and a single-file restart, Beller actually even pulled ahead of Uehling briefly coming out of turn four, but Uehling's momentum provided a return to the lead during the last four laps and the win. Beller, also of Norfolk, finished second, with Bancroft's Seth Steinmeyer taking third place.

Austin Brauner caught a break in the IMCA Stock Cars feature when his starting position changed from the outside of row three to the same spot in row two due to a pair of immediate race restarts that vacated that position by penalty. Brauner, of Platte Center, then broke to the outside of pole sitter Tyler Steckelberg, grabbing the lead on the second lap of the 15-lap feature and using the high side of the track to establish a multi-car lead over the field. A caution with five laps remaining returned the field — including Norfolk's Tejay Mielke, who was seeking a second feature win in a row — to Brauner's rear bumper, but with both drivers sharing the same line Mielke was unable to find an opportunity to pass. Brauner locked up his second win of the season at Off Road Speedway, while Mielke picked up his second top five finish. Meanwhile, behind the leaders, Neligh driver Cameron Wilkinson finished his journey from a starting position five rows deep in the seven-row lineup by passing three cars during those final five laps to earn third place.

Another pre-race adjustment in the lineup for the IMCA Late Models feature allowed Nelson Vollbrecht to move up a row into the pole position, and the Stanton driver responded by leading the first three laps. But a longtime Norfolk racer, JR Coover — who had begun the race on Vollbrecht's outside in row one — used the outside line to take over the front spot. Coover held the lead for the next 13 laps until a slide job in turn three allowed Vollbrecht to cross the track in front of Coover as the pair exited turn four. One lap later, unfortunately for Coover, Beau Johnson was also able to pass in turn four and, during the final lap, a pair of slide jobs by Cory Dumpert that started in turn three and continued into turn four also allowed Dumpert to edge Coover at the finish line in the battle for third place. The win was Vollbrecht's first this season at Off Road Speedway, while Johnson's second place was his second top five finish. The third-place finish for Dumpert, the early points leader in the division, was his fourth top five.

In the IMCA SportMods "A" feature, Willy Kirk of Sloan, Iowa, earned his first Off Road Speedway victory of 2025. Kirk moved into the lead three laps into the 15-lap race and held the lead the rest of the way, while points leader Cameron Meyer traveled from the third row into second place, coming out on top of a three-way battle with Riley Osantowski, Colby Langenberg and Robbie Thome. Osantowski, a Columbus driver who is a dozen points behind Meyer on the early points list, held on to finish third.

Dylan Curry of Norfolk won his first Pro Stock 4 “A” feature of the year at Off Road Speedway, while Kiegan Werner of Pierce added to his lead atop the points list by finishing second — his sixth top five finish in six tries this season. Werner, who overcame a starting position in the fifth of six rows in the race, gained momentum on the high side of the track while coming out of turn two, pulling alongside track newcomer Alyssa Thies of Mapleton, Iowa, before passing as the pair exited the final turn in the competition for second and third place.

Using a similar strategy in the Crown Vic feature race, Bellwood’s Christopher Nickolite wrapped up his fourth win in six outings. Nickolite found himself in second place as the field spread out during the middle of the 10-lap feature but, on consecutive laps, used momentum exiting turn two to pull even with and then take the lead from second-place finisher Aden Mielke of Norfolk.

Cody Erickson of Kennard worked his way from a starting position in the fifth of six rows into a third-place finish.

In a special appearance, Off Road Speedway hosted the Midwest Classic Stock Cars Association cars in a feature race, which included a roll-over by the 1953 Chevy driven by Eric Cerny of Rogers after contacting the wall on the backstretch. Camaros crossed the finish line in first and second place, with Justin Tilton of Lyons earning the win while leading every lap in a ‘67 Camaro, while Oakdale’s Dean Wilkinson picked up second place in a ‘72 after starting near the back of the 13-car field.

Kyle Becker of Columbus guided his 1976 Chevy Vega into a third-place finish.
