Racing at Off Road Speedway reaches midseason

By RANDY POSPISHIL

sports@norfolkdailynews.com Jun 28, 2026

With just half of 10 originally scheduled nights of racing completed and only seven more outings planned before Championship Night on Friday, Aug. 28, competition among drivers vying for track titles at Off Road Speedway is tight and will no doubt remain so the rest of the season.

The largest margin between racers holding the top spot in any of the six divisions and the current second-place driver is a mere nine points, and the top two in each of the other five classes are separated by seven or fewer points after several of those margins were affected by Saturday night's results.

Hampton's Landen Rojewski won an IMCA Late Models "A" feature at Off Road Speedway for the first time, taking the lead from Omaha's Derek Daly when the pair caught up with lapped traffic midway through the 20-lap race. Daly, who had started on the pole, made contact with a slower car he was attempting to pass on the low side of the front stretch while Rojewski continued by past the two cars. Daly recovered to rejoin the chase but spun out between turns three and four later during the same lap, leaving Rojewski in the lead, but the Hampton driver had to withstand three cautions that returned the field to his rear bumper on the restarts before he secured his place in Victory Lane.

The competitive battle for second involved multiple cars, including Ben Sukup, Devin Johnson, Matt Haase and Beau Johnson — with Beau Johnson passing Devin Johnson immediately after the final caution created a restart for a green-white-checkered finish. Beau Johnson then used momentum gained as he exited turn two to propel him through the back stretch to get around Haase.

Johnson, of Plainview, finally secured the second spot behind Rojewski by edging Norfolkan Sukup by the width of his bumper as the two cars reached the finish line on the final lap, forcing Sukup to settle for third.

Norfolk's Tejay Mielke won his second straight IMCA Stock Cars feature, using just four laps to work his way from a starting position three rows back into second place while trailing early leader Chad Bruns. Mielke pursued Bruns, who had forged a formidable early advantage and held the front spot for the first 11 laps but was forced out of contention by a flat tire that set up the feature's only caution with four laps left. Mielke, from Norfolk, then maintained the lead during those final laps for the win, while Neligh drivers fought over the next three places.

Ultimately, Kyle Wilkinson took second, with brother Cameron Wilkinson finishing third following a back-and-forth battle with Derek Sehi that wasn't determined until the two cars reached the finish line, where Cameron Wilkinson held a less-than-a-car length advantage.

Multiple disqualifications by Off Road Speedway officials were the deciding factor in identifying Norfolkian Tanner Uehling as the winner of a chaotic IMCA Hobby Stocks “A” feature.

Uehling’s second-place finish was upgraded following video review and race analysis, which also awarded Joe Rosberg of Norfolk second place and Matt Rezac of Tabor, South Dakota, as the third-place finisher.

Kyle Wilkinson of Neligh recorded his first IMCA SportMods feature win of the season at Off Road Speedway. After starting five rows back, Wilkinson passed early leader and pole-sitter Jim Thies just eight laps into the 15-lap race, then won handily with Norfolk’s Colby Langenberg finishing second and Salix, Iowa, driver Willy Kirk in third place.

Pierce driver Kiegan Werner won an IMCA Sport Compacts feature at Off Road Speedway for the third time this season by quickly moving from the third row into the lead during the first three laps of the 12-lap race, then holding off two primary challengers.

The first came from Bentley Freeman, who was forced from the race with seven laps remaining when his car lost its steering, and the second from eventual second-place finisher Johnny Thomas of Beatrice.

Points races at Off Road Speedway may be closest ever

By RANDY POSPISHIL

sports@norfolkdailynews.com Jun 28, 2026

Rainouts and cancellations have drastically reduced the number of racing nights at Off Road Speedway this season. As a result, the competition for drivers earning points championships in each of the six divisions may be the closest in the track's 11-year history.

The largest margin between racers holding the top spot in any of the six classes and the current second-place driver is just nine points, and the top two drivers in each of the other five classes are separated by seven or fewer points.

Beau Johnson of Plainview, with two wins and four top-five finishes, is perched in the top spot in the IMCA Late Models division and holds a four-point advantage over cousin Devin Johnson, a Bloomfield driver. Two other drivers — Ben Sukup and Matt Haase, both of Norfolk — trail the leader by five and six points, respectively.

Meanwhile, in the IMCA Stock Car class, brothers Cameron and Kyle Wilkinson of Neligh are deadlocked at the top while Norfolk's Tejay Mielke — the winner of the past two "A" features — is just three points back.

Newcomer Tyler Thompson of Juniata is the leader in the IMCA Hobby Stocks division, but longtime racer Jason Wilkinson is within 10 points, trailing by nine.

Cameron Meyer of Pierce, whose season includes two early IMCA SportMods wins at Off Road Speedway in a total of five outings, is four points ahead of Kyle Wilkinson (Neligh).

Johnny Thomas, a Beatrice driver, leads the IMCA Sport Compacts racers by holding the biggest advantage of seven points over his closest rival, but challengers Bentley Freeman of Norfolk and Kiegan Werner of Pierce have won the past two "A" features at the track.

A single point also separates the current two names at the top of the Crown Vics division, where a win and three top-five finishes has propelled Neligh's Damon Arehart to the lead with Hoskins driver Gage Kimmel — although currently winless — taking advantage of five top-five finishes in five feature races to be in the hunt for a track title.

Track championships will be decided during the course of seven scheduled nights of racing, with winning drivers to be determined on Championship Night — slated for Friday, Aug. 28, as part of the Lynn Langenberg Memorial.
